

Dr. Bingzhou Han received both his bachelor's degree and doctor's degree from Peking University in 2017 and 2021. During his graduate study, Dr.Han mainly focused on the development of conditional gene manipulation technology and mechanism study of early embryonic heart development in zebrafish. He is currently an R&D scientist at the Project Management Center of GemPharmatech Co., Ltd, and his work is currently focusing on construction and organization of metabolic, cardiovascular and rare disease related animal models and optimization of genome editing technologies in mice.